

EUROPEAN BIKE WEEK 2015

FAAKER SEE

8th - 13th September 2015

Well boys and girls, this is the really, really BIG bike show in Europe, and it's totally FREE!

Europe's answer to Sturgis, European Bike Week is a laid back free-for-all. Though sponsored by H-D this is not an exclusively Harley or HOG event. There are NO entrance fees and the HUGE Harley Village is open to all. There are also plenty of alternative sites around the beautiful Lake Faak which add a little more edge to the event, even the good humour is every bit as attitude-free as any HOG rally. It's also a short hop to Italy or Slovenia if you fancy a run out!

We will stay in hotels for the trip to and from the event, but camp while at the rally, limited hotel accommodation is available in the surrounding areas, but it is not local to the rally site, and gets booked several years in advance. To guarantee a bed you would have to stay up to 20 miles from the site.

There are so many venues that it's impossible to get details on all the entertainment that's on offer, but if your musical tastes fall somewhere between Soul and Rock via Blues and Country & Western, you'll be well catered for. The official website (www.europeanbikeweek.com) guarantees that there will a party atmosphere.

The journey is about a 700 mile ride from Rotterdam each way, so you really need to allow 3-4 days out and the same for the return, plus 4-5 days at the event itself. Whatever the route, the roads in this part of Europe are a dream to ride with some of the worlds best scenery. We are likely to be travelling through Holland, Germany, France and Belgium.
